To My Ineffable Treasure

Today, my heart feels so full as I sit here thinking about us. About how far we have come since the first day, about the little moments we have shared, and about the dreams we are slowly building together. And more than anything, I find myself wishing with all that I am that this love, this precious connection between us, will last not just for this lifetime but for eternity.

I wish to hold your hand through every sunrise and sunset, through every joy and every challenge. I wish to be the one you lean on when life feels heavy and the one you celebrate with when your heart is light. I wish for my days to be filled with your laughter, your smile, your kindness, and your love.

Even when the world changes and time moves faster than we realize, I pray that our hearts stay anchored to each other. I want our bond to be the kind that even time cannot weaken. I want to walk through every year, every decade, and every moment with you, still choosing you, still loving you, even when our hair turns silver and our steps grow slower.

You are the sweetest part of my life, the reason my soul feels complete. I do not wish for anything grand or extraordinary. I only wish for a lifetime filled with you, your voice, your eyes, your warmth, your love. I want you, just you, for as long as forever allows.

I will never stop choosing you, even if life gives me endless chances to choose again. It will always be you, over and over, in every version of this life and every life beyond it.

So today, as I write this letter, I seal it with a silent promise:

That no matter where life leads us, no matter what tomorrow holds, my heart will be forever yours.

I will love you in this life, the next, and for all the eternities we have yet to live.

in every life,

Amsyar Hamizan
